
Spiritualism New Zealand

CODE OF ETHICS

The members of Spiritualism New Zealand share a common commitment to promote and support ethical practices of the highest possible standards in all fields relating to spiritualism within New Zealand.

Members agree to abide by the following standards:-

- To uphold the Seven Principles of Spiritualism in its various forms.
- To promote and maintain professional relationships with all members of Spiritualism New Zealand.
- To individually and collectively strive to promote spiritual knowledge and understanding throughout New Zealand.
- To support Spiritualism New Zealand by promoting the organisation and its activities,
- To not speak or act in any way that will bring the members or organisation of Spiritualism New Zealand into disrepute,

This Code of Ethics is a guideline only and does not represent the full range of good conduct and ethical behaviour. Acceptance of this Code is a condition of membership.